The Khopra Danda Trek is a newly opened route in the Annapurna region, also known as the Khopra Ridge Trek. Khopra Danda Trek, or Khayer Lake Trek, is a top-rated off-the-beaten-path trek in the center of the Annapurna region. Khopra offers views of the Dhaulagiri (8,167m), Nilgiri (7,061m), Bhara Shikhar (7,647m), Annapurna I (8091m), Machhapuchhre (6,997m), and many other peaks which are not written here. Moreover, this is a lovely trek trail for trekkers who have a very short period to trek, around ten days, but want to trek in a quiet place; this one is the best option. Khayer Lake, 4500 meters (14763 feet), is the leading destination considered sacred per the Hindu religion. Located just by leap on the Annapurna range, a Khayer lake trek is challenging, especially in the last part. The ever-smiling faces of local people, their cultures, and the thick rhododendron forest always keep you very happy during this trek. March and April are the primary time for rhododendron flowers.

The Kopra Ridge excursion begins from the beautiful city of Pokhara after a 6-hour scenic drive from Pokhara to the base of the Annapurna range.

After the Tadapani trail, it leads us along the remote area for a few days while spending time with the local people.

This trip is suitable for visitors who wish to enjoy the delightful, unique culture, a fantastic view of Annapurna, and the rhododendron forest.

You also get a unique experience of diverse cultures and traditional villages with warm and friendly Gurungs and Magars.

Join Kopra Ridge Trek now; you will surely enjoy the incredible scenery with the equally spectacular views of the Annapurna range.
